Frozen Strawberry Surprise

An El Producto cigar in hand George takes a puff. You know (he said) I used to pay 33 cents for these. Now they're more than 50 cents. The 100 year old comedian spent a lifetime perfecting his craft. TV, Movies (Oh God!) and enjoying his friends. Famed author Dame Agatha (Christie, that is) co-created The Crimson Slipper drink which became all the rage in nightclubs where George worked. He would sip on these during his performance while using his cigar as an instrument of comedic timing. This cocktail is worth a try. Let us know what you think.

What you'll need:

Ice cubes
2 ounces dark rum
1 ounce Campari
1/2 ounce triple sec
Dash of Peychaud's bitters
Lime wheel for garnish

Fill a cocktail shaker halfway full with ice cubes. Add the rum, Campari, triple sec and bitters. Shake well. Strain into a cocktail glass (being sure not to spill on any manuscripts lying around). Squeeze the lime wheel over the glass and drop it in without any mystery.
